

THE HIGH DAMES

Of Fashionable Washington Taken in Good and Hard.

THE COUNT DE DAS

Dr. Albert de Sarak, Ex-Jail Bird and Expelled Theosophist, Who Has Been Mystifying Washington Society, Including Senators, Congressmen and Judges, a Fake of the Purest Water—Full Expose of the Slick and Turbanned Fraud Now Fleeing Emotional High Born Dames.It has fallen to our lot to expose or rid the Capital of many frauds from the Rev.
Grumbine to Tar Roof Beckwith, but the case we present this morning is the most stupendous piece of unadulterated villainy, under the guise of religion, it has ever been our duty to lay before the public.Recently there arrived in Washington a swarthy, turbanned and non-English speaking foreigner whose checkered career we have hunted up and authenticated beyond the shadow of a doubt. This foreigner professed to be the general inspector of the Initiates of Thibet, and able to perform miracles. He gave several exhibitions of his powers to the elite of Washington and much astonishment was expressed by not only his auditors but the local press. Irrevocably committed to the belief that all such characters are fakes pure and simple we started out to investigate and, notwithstanding that Congressmen, Senators and judges and high society dames attended his juggling acts and that many refined and intellectual persons, men and women, had become absolute believers in his occult powers, we knew he was a fraud per se and we now proceed to prove the assertion.Here is the full name, title, and symbols which this Eastern fraud, juggler, and swindler surmounts his letter heads:A pair of wings, under which an urn resting upon a globe and around which a serpent coils, with hieroglyphics interspersed and then these titles, with the fraud's name.Oriental Esoteric Head Centre of the United States of America under obedience to the Supreme Esoteric Council
of the
Initiates of ThibetGeneral Inspector Dr. Albert de Sarak
Count de Das
Roi Seange
T.This Dr. de Sarak, Count de Das, came here from New York city, after having played his game there as the greatest theosophist and mystic incomprehensible who ever came out of the hills of Thibet or the caverns of India. He demanded in New York $500 for his charters and $15 each for readings, Congressmen, Senators, and high born ladies rushed to his seances here and the doctor performed numerous juggling tricks, which even astounded Representative Richardson, the astute leader of the Democratic minority. The doctor charged one dollar each admission and then sprang his scheme of charters, membership fees, etc. Finally a society was organized and the swindle commenced.The two highly respectable ladies who were respectively elected president and treasurer in this city, soon had their sup-plications aroused by the doctor or the count's insistence that all moneys be turned over to him for transference to Thibet, or he could not endow the members with the miraculous powers invested in himself by the root eating, grand high cockalorum, wearing a sheepskin, lined with vermin, who had his headquarters in some cavern near Thibet. The lady treasurer held on to the money, however, and the count finally wrote her a thirty-five page letter, every sheet of which was adorned with the above quoted titles, emblems, devices, etc.
He gave her the marvelous information as a demonstration of his occult powers that she regarded him unfavorably! This was true!
But how the doctor was able to divine it struck the lady and her fellow members with awe!Still they refused to produce the funds of the society and the doctor-count opened in a fashionable residence on R street his temple, altar, incense and readings!
The readings were his long suit and greatest graft. Fashionable dames from Connecticut and Massachusetts avenues, in fact from all over the city flocked to the R street temple where the doctor-count in turban, tunic, serpent and all burned incense at an altar and backed the eyes of one of his lady entourage!Of the many ladies who took readings we are permitted to use the name of one who is a non-resident of Washington, but was here on a visit. This lady, Mrs. Garrison, paid $10 spot cash for the following "reading.""This person has not been well understood, especially by those near her.
"She must take courage, for her future will be much better than her past."She will have to struggle still a few months longer, but a disagreeable circumstance which will happen to her will be later the foundation of a radical change in her present state. A sweet voice will come to bring her peace and happiness. She will be obliged to make a journey and in this journey will be some profit for her."She must take care for a blonde woman, under pretence of friendship, is not at all favorable to her and is trying to make discord."Let her believe sincerely in the friendship of the good hearted woman who is not far from here and who is at this moment reading."Let her not go far away from her, but return to Washington, for here will be realized later a thought which she has had.
"Her life is long, but she must pay much attention not to think too much for active thought is trying to her organism, which is rather delicate."She must be gay and throw off the sad thoughts which the elements bring her to try and torment her. Let her be gay and the help of the Master will not fail her."And here is what the president of the society says, who accompanied Mrs. Garrison to the temple. Writing to a friend she says among other things:"O street N. W., June 10, 1902.
"DEAR D:
"I ran across Mrs. R's address shortly after you left today. It is — "I inclose a very hurried copy of Mrs.
Garrison's consultation, so that you may use it if necessary."Where he alludes to the woman reading it refers to me. I sat in the front room reading when he and Mrs. G went into the back room for the consultation, so it did not require second sight to see that much.
I have just written Mrs. M."The GLOBE having thus far traced the doctor-count's fraudulent manipulations in Washington and having ascertained the disastrous results of his campaign in New York, secured by the merest accident in the Congressional Library a copy of the March number of the Madras India Theoso-phist, edited by the world-known Colonel Henry S. Olcott at Adyar, a suburb of Madras.In this number the full career of the Doctor-Count is given. Colonel Olcott says that twelve years ago this Spaniard, who is neither count nor doctor, was expelled from "faking" from the Theosophist Society. He then visited South America and succeeded in establishing a flourishing colony there of the order. He published an influential magazine devoted to the cult and was in high feather with the emotional Latin Americans. He succeeded in securing $17,000 from one of his dupes besides numerous sums from divers other people and he fled but was captured and imprisoned. Finally released he appeared in due time in the United States and Col. Olcott warns all Theosophists in particular and the public in general that Dr. Albert de Sarak, Count de Das is a swindler, an ex jail bird, an expelled member of the Theo-sophists and a fake of the thirty-third degree in fakedom.The editor of the Radiant Centre will not be doing her duty by her readers, her society or the ladies whom she knows has been swindled by this imported fraud if she fails to reproduce this article in her publication.
We have a large list of ladies who have been the dupes of this doctor-no-account and of some who are still under his influence.
It is not our purpose to distress either themselves or their families by the publication of the same, but we warn the unfortunate, cultured and refined lady, the wife of a well1 PRICE
